Blue Key Elects Four Men to Club

Bell, Clayton, Harvin and Perry Honored by Local Chapter

The local chapter of Blue Key, national honorary leadership and service fraternity, last night elected four Seniors into the club. The men honored are J. U. Bell of Lancaster, C. N. Clayton of Liberty, L. H. Harvin of Manning, and W. B. Perry of Easley.

The members-elect are men who have achieved distinction in several phases of student activities. Only those cadets who have taken an active interest in the affairs of the college, and who have demonstrated their real worth to the institution are considered for admission to the fraternity.

Bell is a major, president of the local branch of the ASME, a member of the Senior Disciplinary Council, and a member of the Central Dance Committee. Clayton is a captain, president of Alpha Zeta, and a member of the Senior Disciplinary Council. Harvin is a captain, president of the Senior class, a member of the Senior Disciplinary Council, and a member of the Central Dance Committee. Perry is a captain, president of the Y.

ADMINISTRATION OF CORPS IS CHANGED

Capt. Hinwood is Installed as Assistant to the Commandant

At the beginning of the present session Col. R. John West made several changes in the arrangement of the personnel of the Commandant's staff.

This year only five men are connected with the administration of the Corps of Cadets. Col. West retains his position of Commandant and Captain Hinwood is his assistant. In addition to Col. West and Capt. Hinwood, Sgt. Naramor, Sgt. Wilkinson, and Sgt. Kline have been moved into the large office and are assistants to the Commandant in the administration of the Corps. Sgt. Kline was recently transferred from Panama to the College and has taken the place of Sgt. Vick.

SCABBARD AND BLADE INDUCTS SIX CADETS

Military Frat Honors Barron, Bigger, Chipley, Eaton, Harvin and Hutcheson

The local company of Scabbard and Blade last week elected six new members into the Clemson military organization. The men now being initiated are W. W. Barron, Capt. Co. I; T. C. Bigger, Lieut. Colonel; W. C. Chipley, Capt. Co. C; R. B. Eaton, Captain, Co. K; L. H. Harvin, Captain Co. A; J. R. Hutcheson, Capt. Co. E.

The Clemson company secured its charter from the national organization of Scabbard and Blade last May when the local Sabre Club was inducted by the Wofford College company.

Present membership of Scabbard and Blade is composed of J. U. Bell, C. A. Lytle, G. W. Robinson, F. B. Schirmer, H. J. Schroder, and C. D. Wyatt.

COL. WEST APPOINTS DANCE COMMITTEE

Administration of all Dances
Will be Handled by Committee

Due to the inauguration of a new policy for Clemson dances last year and the discontinuance of dancing clubs, there was considerable misunderstanding. Although the season ended financially successful and dances were held at a greatly reduced cost to cadets, the administration machinery was far from satisfactory.

The purpose of this new policy is to provide clean social recreation for members of the student body, provide financial support for the necessary student activities occurring during the current year, and prevent repeated calls for subscriptions.

In order to insure an orderly business-like administration of social affairs, the Commandant has appointed a Dance Committee whose duty it will be to act upon all questions within its jurisdiction and make recommendations to the Commandant. In other words this activity will be conducted by the Cadets for the Cadet Corps in accordance with the new policy.

NEARLY 1100 CADETS ENROLL AT CLEMSON; 334 FRESHMEN SIGN

According to the latest figures obtainable from W. H. Washington, Registrar, the total enrollment of cadets and students at Clemson for the 1933-34 session is 1098. Of this number 334 are freshmen.

Frosh to Meet College Leaders In Chapel at 8 P. M. Tomorrow

Heads of Departments, Cadet Officers, Coaches, and Student Leaders be Present

Also Huge Pep Meeting

In order to give new men at Clemson a chance to become familiar with all branches of administration and student activity at the college, the annual college night will be held in the chapel tomorrow night at eight o'clock.

An interesting program of skits and entertainment will intersperse the formal presentation of prominent figures on the campus to the student body. Heads of all branches of the college administration will be presented, including the president, business manager, registrar, alumni secretary, commandant, mess officer, head football coach and others. Following this, student leaders, including class presidents, cadet military officers, editors of The Tiger and Taps, captains of the athletic teams, presidents of the honor fraternities, and presidents of the other leading clubs and fraternities will be presented. Later in the evening, visiting alumni will be introduced to the Corps.

As a grand finale to the evening's program Coach Jess Neely and his staff will be presented, who in turn will present Clemson's football team. From this time on the meeting will be in charge of the student cheer leaders who will conduct a gigantic pep meeting. This pep meeting is on the eve of the opening game with Presbyterian College. Members of the Corps, alumni, campus people, and other friends of the Corps are urged to attend this meeting as it is presented for the two fold purpose of fostering fellowship by a more thorough contact with Clemson's activities, and of giving the football team a rousing send off for their new season.

The officers of the Commandant's staff have been assigned to the various battalions as tactical officers and teach the various courses in military science. Captain Ramsey is the tactical officer for the First Battalion. Lt. Searcy is tactical officer for the Second Battalion. Capt. Sharp is tactical officer for the Third Battalion. Capt. Sharp and Lt. Searcy teach senior military science; Capt. Hoy and Capt. Hinwood teach the junior military science; Capt. Ramsey and Sgt. Naramor instruct the sophomores.

A comprehensive directory of student military athletic and extra-curricula activity leaders follows:

Woodward Offensive Gun

That bloodthirsty growl you hear every afternoon, ladies and gentlemen, is the roar of a hungry tiger, seeking a few choice morsels after wandering aimlessly in the jungle for the past several years barely sufficing a heartbreaking football depression. The Clemson Tiger is now crouched in his lair at the foot of the Blue Ridge, awaiting the first unknowing prey that will walk into its death trap within the next few days.

Three weeks of grinding practice has been spent by Coach Jess Neely and his assistants in preparation for the hard eleven-game schedule that faces the Clemson team this year.

Upon starting the 1933 campaign early the morning of Labor Day, Neely found that the replacement of two tackles, the development of a pair of flankmen and finding a good blocking back were the most important issues to which solutions had to be found.

JEW SHOP UNDER THE ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT

Little Store in Front of Barracks Becomes Clemson Canteen

The "Jew Shop" is no more! The management of that famed Tiger institution has changed hands, and the appearance of the establishment has changed a great deal.

Beginning September 1, the little store in front of First Barracks, now officially designated as the Clemson Canteen was taken in charge by the local Athletic Association, with Mr. M. A. Abbot in charge.

The Canteen will keep the outside counters up, just as they are now. In addition, benches will be added for the benefit of the customers, an innovation which will no doubt prove very popular.

A full line of drinks, eatables, ice cream, paper and similar articles will always be kept on hand; and the Canteen will remain open from 8 A. M. until Call to Quarters during the week, and from 3 until 7:30 P. M. on Sunday, in order to serve its clientele.

THE TIGER NEEDS YOUR SUBSCRIPTION

On the front page of this, the first issue of THE TIGER for the 1933-34 session, will be found a subscription blank for the use of anyone who may wish to subscribe to the Cadet Corps' weekly newspaper.

THE TIGER is a paper all Clemson men should be interested in. All local news of interest to Clemson men is published from week to week, including detailed accounts of all athletic engagements. Clemson's menu of football this season includes eleven games, the longest schedule of any team in the Southern Conference. The Yellow Peril is going to run up against some tough opposition, but the dopesters are predicting some interesting affairs when the Tiger eleven travels to Atlanta, Washington, Columbia and Greenville, to say nothing of the other seven big games. You may not be able to be right on the sidelines at all these games, but you can get all the dope and football chatter from the pages of THE TIGER each week.

Send in your subscription now while the season is still young and help us boost the circulation of THE TIGER to the 2000 mark this fall!

TO THE FRESHMEN

Clemson this year boasts some three hundred and thirty freshmen. THE TIGER takes this opportunity to congratulate you freshmen upon the choice of the college at which you intend to spend the most formative four years of your life.

You who are freshmen are undergoing a change of personal habits and characteristics as marked in effect upon your future as the clippers that played such havoc with the head of hair you so dolefully saw disappear. Just as you were shorn of your crowning glory, just so will you cast aside certain peculiarities which have clung to you in your previous life. And just as surely as your bald heads again become covered, you will even more surely acquire new habits which will stick by you the rest of your days.

Although you can not govern the kind of hair which will replace your shining pates, you can, if you will, take your choice of the kind of college and Clemson men you will make of yourselves. And you can not be too careful in selecting your type. The upperclassmen present apt specimens of the kind of men Clemson develops. Pick the man you most admire and see that you imitate his good attributes and try to improve upon his poorer qualities.

Another thing to remember at Clemson: there are those who will attempt to discourage anyone who displays an ambition to get where he is going; you will be tempted to shirk your duties; you will be tempted to take all the short cuts. If you follow this inclination, you, and you alone, will be cut short. Above all, remember that you are here at Clemson to receive an education not only from books, but from human nature. Study the men around you. You will have to live with human nature longer than you will have to live with your books. Grasp your opportunities now and make the most of them.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Who said they wouldn't be glad to get back to school again this year? Half the Corps was back anywhere from three to seven days prior to the matriculation date and glad to be here too.

A large number of the early arrivers were "social lions" and they busied themselves with trips here and there to renew old friendships or to make new contacts.

Tommy Lide and "Fish Eye" McKain were here and there over in Anderson and both were reported as doing very well. It has been said by one who knows that the Fish-Eyed one made a last minute rally to overcome the lead which Lide had piled up during the R. O. T. C. camp here in June.

"Big Nin Kyker" Newsome arrived on the scene two weeks early with wild tales of an everlasting romance between himself and an old play mate. "Big Nin" is quoted as saying, "I will always be faithful to my Elizabeth, so help me God."

A late news dispatch from Iva, S. C. gives an account of The Kid sleeping on his recent date. How can The Kid ever prove himself as powerful as Flagg or Moise when he reclines like that?

Ego Troutman is still making those frequent trips over the way and according to him he is standing right at the lead. You'd better be concentrating on that football, Ego.

There was trouble in the camp when Shack drove all the way from Massachusetts in one day to see Apple and then she wasn't home, but everything's all right now. They make such a sweet couple.

Red All is making an endeavor to throw that irresistible dynamic personality on a certain red head in Anderson. It will be a true test of Red's power with a real woman.

The story goes that a certain senior asked a young married lady on the campus to take in the dance with him last week and when she didn't accept he was terribly hurt. What to do?

LYLES IS FEATURE EDITOR OF ANNUAL

To round out this year's TAPS staff, W. G. Lyles of Newberry was recently elected Feature Editor. His capabilities in this line will make him a valuable addition to the staff of the '34 Yearbook. Lyles is to be ably assisted by George Way, also of Newberry.

Work on TAPS is to get under way next week when the photographer arrives to begin making the individual pictures for the book.

The photo editors are requesting the cadets of the corps to cooperate with them in getting their pictures made at the scheduled time.

WITH THE ALUMNI

Russ Wait, '33, is working with an architect in Houston, Texas. During the summer he was employed in making a plaster model of the port of Houston.

W. A. Bowles, '33, has charge of the architectural work in planning the CCC camps in this territory.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Look them over and see how many you can answer.

Q. How did the college get the name "Clemson"?

A. It is named for Thomas G. Clemson who willed the state 336 acres of land and $58,000 for the purpose of establishing an A. & M. college.

Q. When was Clemson founded?

A. 1893.

Q. How many trustees does Clemson have?

A. Thirteen, seven self-perpetuating life members and six others elected by the state.

Q. What relation was Clemson to John C. Calhoun upon whose estate Clemson College was founded?

A. A son-in-law. He married Calhoun's oldest daughter, Anna Maria.

Q. Where was The South Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical College situated before Clemson was founded?

A. It was a division of the University of South Carolina at Columbia.

Q. Who was responsible for the movement of the A. & M. School to Clemson?

A. The late Senator Ben. R. Tillman.

Q. What was the enrollment of the first class?

A. 446.

Q. What three professors here now were members of this class?

A. Professors J. E. Hunter, W. W. Klugh, and R. E. Lee.

Another year begins. Anyone wishing to make contributions to this column (they are welcomed) has only to leave them in room 503. If deemed worthy they will be published. All criticism, constructive or otherwise, is solicited and possibly accepted.

Two new clubs have been formed on the campus during the past week. Both owe their origin to the gods of hunger and thirst. The Grill Club was the first to spring into existence. It is composed of a group of blue blooded young aristocrats whose forebears rode to the hounds with the assistance of mint juleps, huh- The club meets semi-weekly at that fashionable rendezvous in the heart of the downtown shopping district at Clemson. We speak of Scotty's Messery. The purpose of these meetings is to eat.

The other organization is the Heidelberg Club. It is made up of even bluer blooded young gentlemen. The place of meeting is the same but the purpose is different. The name is self-explanatory. This group convenes each afternoon at 5:30 and the six charter members are invariably present. Both of these clubs are exclusive to the point of snobbishness. Don't try to join.

A new and smaller dance association has charge. Let us hope their endeavors for better dances at Clemson will be successful. The dances last year were good but could have been much better. The main failing, in our estimation, was the fact that the Jungleers played at almost every dance. Not that the Jungleers are not good because they are. The dances however have invariably the same crowd of people. This coupled with the sameness of the music had a tendency to make them become monotonous. A variation of the orchestras will help immersurably.

The prospects for a good football season are bright. Let's get behind the team and give them all the support we can. They do their best, let's do our. Less criticism and more cheering is needed.

and a member of the Tiger Brotherhood.

Eligibility for membership in Blue Key is governed by a system of points whereby a certain evaluation is placed upon each position and office to which a cadet may aspire. Under present regulations 40 points are required of a cadet before he may be considered for admission. These stipulations are, however, elastic to the extent that a student may gain admission thru the unanimous vote of the fraternity, although he may not have the number of points ordinarily required.

The membership quota of Blue Key is limited to 20 men of the senior class. The fraternity at present is composed of five men who were inducted last spring as Juniors to form the nucleus of the club for the session of 1933-34. Eleven more seniors will be elected to membership before Christmas, in two groups of five and six each.

Officers and present members of Blue Key are: G. W. Robinson, president; W. L. Leverette, vice-president; W. C. Cobb, secretary-treasurer; F. B. Schirmer, and C. D. Wyatt.

ENGINEERING NEWS

Recent visitors to the campus include H. M. Rogers, '33; J. M. Coleman, '33; G. F. Miller, '32; A. M. Johnstone, Jr., '32; M. T. Geddings, '30 and W. H. Moore, '24.

M. J. Forb, '33 is now connected with the Engineering Department of the Cornell-Dubilier Condenser Corp. in New York City.

C. F. Floyd, '33 has located in Greenville with the Southern Public Utilities in their Transportation Department.

W. T. Bradley and W. N. Coleman both of the class of '30 are two of the five survivors of the group of thirty college graduates who took the 1930 Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company's Technical Training Course.

W. T. Bradley is located in Memphis, Tennessee, and W. N. Coleman in Montgomery, Alabama.

T. M. Watson, '33 and W. H. Trammell, '33, are connected with the Spartanburg Branch of the Southern Public Utilities.

D. J. Watson, '15 who has for a number of years been the College Superintendent of Buildings has been assigned additional duties and is now Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds.

F. M. Furtick (Fritz) '07 was on the Campus recently to enroll his eldest son, Fritz, Jr. Fritz has

GRID GRINDINGS

Well, folks, Jess Neely is certainly out to make the roar of the Tiger more than just a mere twitching of the Cat's whiskers this year—Some thirty-odd men have been sweating off between three and ten pounds a day for the last three weeks preparing themselves for the strain of a hard 11-game schedule—Oh, they gain some of it back, but if you don't think it's work in a big way, just consult one or two of the boys who know—It was a real treat to watch Captain Heinemann attempt to down Rat Roberts, the 257-pounder who is striving for a tackle berth on the yearling team—Roberts lifted "Dutch" off the ground and walked all over the field with him—But he met his match in "Hippo" Lewis—Lewis picked him up and settled his huge carcass down in no gentle manner—Those who saw the feat say Rat Roberts bounced for five minutes—There seems to be no way of stopping this Woodward boy—He knows the art of giving them a hip and taking it away—Just plays with the tacklers like a cat with a mouse—He's still showing the brilliant form that sent his name to the top of the state football list last year.

It is rumored around that some of the overgrown youngsters in the Varsity line are just before being run out of jobs by several green but very determined sophomores—And by the way, several of those green sophomores are looking mighty powerful—They evidently mean business in a big way, and will probably play the first string regularly if somebody doesn't wake up—Pennington's injury certainly gave Clemson football stock a downward shove—His kicking, passing, running and defensive play was being counted on strongly by the coaching staff—Alex Stevens will likely do the booting again.

If, by any chance, you happen to see a more reliable defensive man against passing attacks than Bill Dillard, please point him out—He can be used to great advantage—Dillard, the ball hawk of the squad, is all over the backfield, and everyone knows how he can reach the higher altitudes when necessary—Few passes will be completed in his territory this year.

More than just one person seems to be of the opinion that Bill Croxton is just about the most powerful man on the field—Watch him—Troutman's leg seems to have at least temporarily healed and he is displaying a good brand of football—May he keep it up—Cummings and Yarborough are both good men in the pivot position—They will probably see about equal service—Kissam and Shore are making it hot for Watson and Fellers at ends and Tate Horton is not allowing any of them too much rest.

Cole and McCown are coming on nicely as blocking backs and, to a certain extent, upon their broad shoulders rests the success of this year's team—Hinson and Cathcart thus far are good understudies of Woodward and may see a great deal of service—Gene Willimon, Lynn, Mosley, Robinson, Barron, Sanders, Folger and Ford are good running backs that will bear careful watching at all times.

HEARD AT THE KEYHOLE

Tom Brown is all-American material if Clemson ever had any—Dozier may look a little underweight, but opposing linemen are going to find him hard to handle this year—Black is nobody's baby, and can that boy hit you—Kneec is looking better this year than ever before. He will play a lot—If someone could only get Lewis out of that Hippopotamus wobble and make him play football there would be something to that boy—Heinemann had better keep one eye on Inabinet and Croxton—Rookies are sometime sensational—That Wolfe is a big old boy, and he looks like he means to play some football before all the shorthings are over—They can play football if they want to, but whether they want to or not is left entirely up to them.

FRESHMEN ARE GIVEN SWIMMING LESSONS

Practically the entire Freshman class of 315 students has been tested for its swimming ability in the Clemson College Y swimming pool. The results of the tests have proven very good. Only 17 men were found to be non-swimmers. Classes will be organized immediately for these men, and the fundamentals of correct swimming will be taught until every man can swim in a creditable manner.

The tests showed that 20 men had passed the Junior Red Cross Life Saving test; 9 had passed the Senior Red Cross Life Saving test; that several excellent swimmers were among its members.

Clemson College has 14 cadets who have qualified for the rank of Red Cross Life Saving Examiner. These men, under the supervision of the Clemson College Y Staff, will conduct Advanced Swimming and Red Cross Life Saving classes throughout the entire school year. This is being done so that every student at Clemson may have the opportunity to become a swimmer, to learn more about swimming, or to pass life saving tests.

Several intramural swimming meets are planned as a part of the extension program for swimming at Clemson this year.

FIRST VESPER SERVICES

As has been the custom for many years, the Clemson Y formally opened its program for the school year with Vesper Services the first Sunday after the arrival of the Freshmen. Wade Perry, president of the Y for the current year, conducted the services and Doctor Sikes, president of the college, was the first speaker. The services were well attended and Doctor Sikes directed his address to the freshmen who made up the majority of the audience.

Sunday Vesper Services make up one of the most important parts of the Y program and are held in the Y auditorium every Sunday night immediately after supper. The program consists of news and travel reels, songs, and a talk by a well known speaker or by delegations from neighboring colleges. Doctor Sikes' address brought out the fact that the development of mankind from the beginnings of history has depended mainly on the conception of God which he held during the various periods of history. Following the services, a group of sincere was held in the lobby of the Y.

Y PROGRAM FOR THIS YEAR

In spite of a generally slashed budget, the program of the Y will be carried out on as large a scale as in previous years.

There is much to the Y program which is not evident to the casual observer. Such activities as the picture show, athletics, etc., are evident on the surface but the things that actually represent the real purpose of the Y are the things done in barracks or in meetings at the Y. It is planned to increase the activities for the freshmen this year. This work is under the direction of Frank Schirmer, assisted by J. Metz. Freshman councils will be started on each company hall in a few days, and in October a large council will be organized from the men taking the most interest in the company councils.

Evening watch groups, led by K. W. McGee have begun and it is hoped that the freshmen as well as the old boys will take an active part in these short meetings.

Plans have been made for better and closer relations between the Y and the campus churches. Kelly Traynham, chairman of this committee, is making good headway towards cooperating the programs of the Y and the churches.

Vesper services are being planned to reach more campus people as well as students. S. A. Cooler, director of the vesper programs, is scheduling more interesting speakers and Roy Cooper is helping with special music for vespers.

Karl Knuessner, chairman of the Boy's Work committee, is planning to provide more wholesome activity for the campus boys. Boy Scout troops are also being sponsored in neighboring towns.

The annual membership canvass, which was completed last week under the guidance of Carlyle Clayton, has helped reveal what phases of the Y program attract the most interest from the students and these phases will receive special attention.

The Clemson Y expects to have the most thorough program of any year so far. Brice Latham and Wade McConnell are arranging programs in all the surrounding towns and colleges and are planning some trips into other states.

M. P. Nolan, chairman of the Bible Study committee is planning a more carefully worked out program this year than heretofore. He has already outlined plans for a more effective and efficient program along these lines.

The publicity committee plans to organize a program by which the work of the Y will be made known to the people interested in Clemson and in the Y. Through the courtesy of Professor Bryan, news of the Y activities will be published in all the newspapers in this section.

A careful budget has been made arranging for a more systematic delegation to various religious conferences throughout the year. More attention has been given to selecting men who are fitted to represent the Y at the various conferences.

The Clemson Y is fortunate in having the president of the State Y Cabinet and of the Camp Adger Retreat among its officers and hopes to be well represented at all religious meetings in the state, as well as those throughout the south.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

The annual membership canvass of the Y was held last week with excellent results. As has been the custom, the canvass was divided into two parts, the first, for the freshmen alone was carried out the first week the freshmen were here, and the other, for the old men was conducted last week.

The purpose of this canvass is to find what phases of the Y work attract the most interest from the corps, and to determine what men wish to become active members of the Y. The associate membership fee is paid for in the activity fee. The campaign also solicits voluntary contributions to aid in carrying out the program of the local and foreign Y. (M. C. A.'s. Only a small part of the sum thus obtained, however, leaves the campus, as the Y expends a much smaller portion of its finances than most National organizations do. The major part of this sum is returned to the corps in the form of an extended Y program. The new 1933-34 Y Handbooks were distributed at this time. The canvass was conducted under the direction of Carlyle Clayton with the assistance of several interested cadets.

Y AIDS WITH FRESHMAN WEEK

This year, as in the past, the Y cooperated with the college in the Freshman Orientation week. The cabinet members reported before the arrival of the freshmen and assisted the college authorities by directing the new men in the main building and around barracks. During the week several athletic events were sponsored for the Rats and Saturday evening an apple throwing was held on the campus in front of the Y. The Y also assisted with the socials given for the freshmen by the campus churches by throwing the building open to the Baptist church.

CABINET TRAINING

The cabinet of the Y held its annual pre-school retreat at Blue Ridge, the Y conference grounds near Asheville September 2. The purpose of this retreat is to better prepare the members of the cabinet for the work of the session and to make plans for the work of the coming year. This session lasted three days and the entire cabinet, with the exception of three members who were unavoidably detained, was present. In addition to the cabinet members, Messrs. Holtzendorff, Copper, Fridy, and Kirchner of the Clemson Y, and two of the outstanding men of the Southern Y were present. These last two were Jim Hardwick, now one of the traveling secretaries of the Southern region and Dr. W. D. Weatherford, president of the Y graduate school of Nashville.

The first meeting Saturday night, was held at the Clemson cabin and was devoted to a devotional meeting. Sunday morning the meeting was held a short distance up the mountain and Jim Hardwick addressed the group. The Sunday night meeting was held at the Council Ring and Dr. Weatherford made a fine talk on the duties and responsibilities of a cabinet member. The last assembly was held Monday morning and was devoted to discussing the plans for the coming year.

BAPTIST SOCIAL IS HELD FOR FRESHMEN

The Baptist Frosh were entertained in a most delightful manner in the club room of the Y Friday evening, September 8.

As the Frosh entered the club rooms, they were greeted by campus members of the church and young ladies from the neighboring towns. In the club rooms, Mr. Roy Cooper directed the games and saw to it that all present enjoyed every minute of the time there. After several interesting games, refreshments were served.

The great success of this social was due to the attendance of nearly as many girls and also to the fact that the campus people participated in the program in such a whole hearted manner.

This social was one of the most enjoyable of its kind ever held on the Clemson campus.

SOCIAL FOR FIRST YEAR MEN ENJOYED

The social for the Methodist first year men was held in the Reception Room of the Methodist Church, Friday, September 8. About 75 Frosh attended and had a most enjoyable time. The attendance of about 20 young ladies added much to the pleasure of the evening. Then too, another contribution to the success of the party was the interesting and novel games directed by Wallace Fridy.

After the Frosh had been welcomed and a few games played, faculty members of the church and Methodist student leaders made addresses to those in attendance. Immediately after the discourses, refreshments were served.

WITH THE ALUMNI

Mr. W. W. Stover, '15, who has been connected with the Southern Bell Telephone Company in Greenville, was married to Miss Elizabeth Mills in June.

Mr. G. T. Bryan, '21, was married to Miss Mary Hutcheson on August 31.

Mr. G. W. Suggs, '18, was married to Miss Langford of Atlanta in July.

Mr. H. E. Craig, '17, was married to Miss Selma of Atlanta this summer.

Mr. W. D. Dansler, '33, was married to Miss Ruby Dugan of Chester, Georgia on August 10.

Mr. J. J. Norton, '25, has been made superintendent of the mill of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., in Cedartown, Ga.

Mr. A. M. Hardin, '16, has recently been appointed in the Public Service Company in Georgia.

Gene Patterson is now connected with the Standard Oil Company in Columbia.

Jimmy Baker is now connected with the mill at Clearwater, S. C.

Fay Despot, a Clemson man and state senator of Fairfield county, has recently been appointed consul to Bolivia.

Bob Stutts, a popular graduate of Clemson who is connected with the U. S. Government Textile work, has recently been transferred to Raleigh, N. C.

The Savannah Alumni chapter has not been sleeping this summer. We have 17 freshmen enrolled at Clemson this year who graduated at the Savannah high school last year. We certainly have a wide awake bunch down at Savannah. W. D. Hutchins, secretary of chapter, who holds a responsible position with the Southern Cotton Seed Oil Company and who is president of the National Oil Chemists of America, has been largely responsible for this good work.

Mr. Jake Woodward was president and organized a chapter of alumni in Fairfield county on the evening of August 14. The headquarters will be in Winnsboro. There is a large number of good loyal Clemson men there, and we feel that they will be of much benefit to the college.

Prof. A. E. McKenna Receives Master's Degree

Mr. A. E. McKenna, Associate Professor of Weaving and Designing, Clemson College Textile School, received the degree of Master of Science in Industrial Education under Dr. Clyde H. Wilson at the University of Tennessee. The subject of his thesis was "A Survey of Textile Schools and Departments of Southern Colleges." Through mill connections Mr. McKenna collected many dobby designs and suggestions to be worked into the courses of instruction at the Clemson Textile School.

Trailing The Tigers

with JOE SHERMAN

Well, the middle of September is here again, and once more we are all 'bretheren in de lodge' until sometime next June. Whew! That's a long time; and just thing, some of us were actually glad, even anxious, for school to start again.

This column can see no reason for not at least trying to start the year off right. And since it is our lot to tip over the dope buckets at least once a week, we are primarily interested in seeing to it that the athletic side of the whole question gets due consideration. And there is one thing that we want to get across right now. Next week will be too late, so we will just have to postpone facts about the present season until some late date. It's going to be hard to say just exactly what we have in mind, but maybe you will be able to bear with us and at least think it over for a moment.

Fortunately or unfortunately, as the case may be, the editor of this column has been living at Clemson (I mean living, not going to school) for the past seven years. We have been yelling our heads off for the Tigers for quite a while now, and our desire to see Clemson on the very top is overshadowed by none. We have seen the time when Clemson was apparently on the right road to fame and fortune. We can produce newspaper clippings that will show Clemson leading the nation in the football race even after mid-season had been passed. Clippings that will show Clemson at the top and Notre Dame, Southern California, and Tulane struggling along down near the bottom of the heap.

FLASH IN THE PAN

But invariably Clemson has been the proverbial "flash in the pan." Although we do not claim to be experts at this game of figuring things out (And Major Martin will vouch for that), we do believe that we can come just about as close to putting our finger on the spot as can anyone. Every man to his own opinion, and we have ours. It will take a strong argument to sway us in our belief.

"Alright", you're probably saying. "If you're so smart, why aren't you rich? Just what is wrong with Clemson?"

It is our firm belief that Clemson will continue to win from the smaller teams and lose to the larger ones until the Clemson Cadet Corps, Clemson alumni, Clemson supporters and Clemson players get over one of the most pronounced inferiority complexes that a football field has ever seen. It is far worse than the much-discussed "jinx" that seized Carolina the minute Clemson trots out on the field. (Pardon us, Gamecocks, but some people really do believe that.)

NEWBERRY-KENTUCKY

We remember distinctly when Josh Cody's powerful state champions of 1929 ran out on Riggs field one afternoon to pile up a 75 to 0 score against Newberry. Starting with that, Clemson rode roughshod over each opponent as they came—until they visited Lexington, Ky., and stepped into a nest of wildcats that gave not the slightest thought to the spectacular trail the Tigers had been blazing through the South. But could Clemson forget that she was up against a big school? The score was, Kentucky 44, Clemson 6. And we'll let you draw your own conclusions. Now, you could stand there and argue all day, but we will never believe that a team that can defeat Newberry 75 to 0 could go anywhere and get licked 44 to 6 if they were no rendered useless by that inferiority complex. They could have been off form, crippled, most anything, and still made a better showing.

Now don't get too far ahead of us when we say that Clemson has what it takes this year to make a good football team. But if you don't believe that, just stroll down to Riggs field some afternoon and watch those Tigers at work and play. There is no visible reason why Clemson should not have a far better than average team this year.

A SOLUTION

But there are hidden reasons that may or may not prove fatal to the season, considered as a whole. The coaches and the team will need the full cooperation of those Clemson supporters who are on the sidelines as well as those men who are on the field. Before Clemson will be more than just another football team, Clemson has got to believe that she is just as good as the team just across the scrimmage line. Maybe that should be more fully explained. We do not intend to tell you that Clemson is a sure bet for the Rose Bowl game, nor do we want everyone to "get it in the neck", but if you don't believe in yourself, who will? It is of great importance that we stop letting the larger schools lick us before we even reach town. And there is no better time to break a bad habit than the present.

For more years than you or I can remember, Clemson has prided herself on the Tiger Spirit. The good old Tiger Spirit. Well, we will run the risk of a couple of black eyes right now to tell you straight that the Clemson spirit is becoming more and more like the Old Gray Mare. We make exceptions of the Carolina and Furman games. It is at these two games that people witness the true Clemson spirit. But what about the games that should be of greater importance to use? Just think back over the years that you have been at Clemson, and then "Think It Over, Brother."

This year Clemson is facing just about the hardest schedule that can be found in the records. The Tigers are to travel far and wide, meaning first class opposition each week, and if there ever was a call for the Clemson spirit, this is the year. So let's get in behind the coaches and the team with all we have, forget that 'better than we are' complex, and see to it that the players have every incentive to give their best every week-end weather, they are facing the weakest team in the country or the strongest.

PRICES FIXED FOR ATHLETIC ENGAGEMENTS

A general admission of $1.20 with no seats being reserved, will be the cost of viewing Tiger grid games this fall, according to a recent announcement by the Athletic Association. A number of seats will be held behind the goal posts for college and high school students, at a charge of fifty-five cents.

Season tickets will be $5 for male purchasers, and $3 for feminine sports enthusiasts. These will entitle the holder to entrance to all football, basketball, boxing, track, and baseball contests held on the campus.

Craig and Moss Aid Coach
Bob Jones in Drilling Yearlings

ERSKINE HERE SEPT. 29

Freshman football practice started last Monday with about 65 rats reporting for service.

Coach Bob Jones is head mentor and is ably assisted by Charlie Moss and Johnson Chaig, two former Clemson varsity grid stars. Jones is concentrating his time on the tackles, guards, and center, and Craig and Moss are in charge of the ends and backfield, respectively.

Although a good many of the candidates fall into the hefty category, the team this year will not be as heavy as the frosh eleven of last fall.

No scrimmages were held the first week, with the entire time being devoted to light drill work and the teaching of the fundamentals of the game—tackling and blocking.

The first scrimmages were started this week, but the members of the New-Boy aggregation will not meet the varsity ball-toters until after the P. C. game.

The freshman schedule follows:
September 29—Erskine at Clemson
October 18—U. S. C. at Columbia
October 28—P. C. at Clinton
November 11—U. of Ga. at Athens
November 24—Furman at Clemson.

cordance with policies outlined by the college authorities.

Each organization desiring to sponsor a formal dance will make application to the chairman, Cadet Captain L. H. Harvin, for a date and give him a statement of amount of funds desired and purpose for which expenditures are to be made. Decorations and details of the functions are to be arranged with the Dance Committee.

In addition to formal dances, the Committee intends to arrange informal dances on football dates and at such other times as may be convenient.

The officers and members of the Central Dance Committee as announced by Colonel West are as follows:

L. H. Harvin, chairman
G. W. Robinson, vice chairman
J. E. Hunter, treasurer

W. C. Cobb, secretary
J. U. Bell, officer in charge of decorations
E. H. King, officer in charge of dance
W. G. Lyles, assistant in charge of decorations.
Other members of the committee are F. B. Schirmer, L. N. McKain, and T. J. Simons.

READY AND RARING

The squad as a whole reported in excellent shape and took the field for the initial workout outfitted in full uniform. Opening the first practice with some thirty-odd candidates, the Tigers have been hard at work from the start and are now ready for the curtain-raiser with Walter Johnson's fighting Blue Hose.

There is no doubt that Clemson will boast a greatly improved machine over last year's aggregation. The men are of uniform size, "big enough and fast enough", as the Tiger mentor phrases it, and the reserves will be there ready for action at a moment's notice.

The forward wall, from tackle to tackle, will be the strongest Clemson has had since the boom days of '29. In that line there is plenty of weight to stand the grind and speed enough to carry out plays as they are designed.

The backfield will be one of the fastest in the state. Although the men are not what could be termed powerful, they are fast enough, elusive enough and brainy enough to keep Clemson well in the running. There may be a slight weakness in the punting and passing department, but it takes a little time to find the best solution to such problems, and it is a safe bet that Neely will get a good line on his boys Saturday and then smooth out the wrinkles before the Georgia Tech game.

OPTIMISM

Under the impression that the Clemson freshmen team of last year was probably better than that of any other southern college, many people may wake up to find that they are a little too optimistic about Clemson's chances for this year. But it is not advisable to make your predictions without first taking a look at every team on the schedule and taking each one at face value.

The Tigers have a hard row to hoe before December 1, it is almost too much to expect them to sweep through the season without a few unlooked for mishaps.

But then on the other hand in Coach Neely's own words, "We do not expect to make a clean sweep of our eleven-game schedule, but we will be in there with the intention of winning them all."

In two more days all the blowing, ballyhoo and whatnot that you have heard concerning the greatly improved Tigers will be put to test. Presbyterian College will be here Saturday fully determined to overturn the dope bucket all over Tigertown. P. C. has never been a set up for Clemson in the many years that the two teams have been playing. Walter Johnson has the annoying habit of getting his boys into shape faster than any other man in the state, and it will be fatal to Clemson not to give them due consideration.

However, it is pretty well known that the Bengals have improved in practically every department. Two phases of the game in particular are now tasting better times in the Tiger camp. Neely has one or two boys who can punt fairly consistently and he has a couple of men who can gain ground inside the ten yard mark. It will be hard to stop Clemson only several yards from the goal this year and it will be almost equally as hard to keep them fighting all through the game with their backs to a wall.

VARIETY

Also encouraging is the fact that the Clemson attack will vary more this year than it has in the past several years. In the backfield are four men, any one of whom can be expected to carry the ball, pass and if imperative, kick with a fair amount of success.

Not that Clemson will be 'tricky' this year, but every man will bear watching nevertheless.

Presbyterian Church Completely Restored

Sunday, September 17 marked the formal opening of the restored Fort Hill Presbyterian Church at Clemson College. Although the church was practically completed by the end of June, the first service was not held until September 3. The date for the formal opening was set for September 17 in order that all the students, both new and old, would have the opportunity of attending the service. The building now stands just as it did before the fire except that the organ is missing. It is hoped that even the organ will be replaced sometime in the future. The restoration of this church means quite a lot to the students at Clemson, especially those who witnessed the tragic fire.

In his address on Sunday morning Rev. Crouch related the history of the church from the time of the fire to the completion of the new building. The fire occurred on the night of Sunday, December 4, 1932. Undaunted by the calamity, Rev. Crouch immediately made plans for a new building. An appeal was made to the R.F.C. for funds with which to pay for the labor necessary to rebuild the church. Fortunately this appeal met with favor, and on January 18, actually before the fire was completely out (coal in the pit was still burning), work was started on clearing away the debris and ruins. On January 6 at a called meeting the Synod authorized and endorsed an emergency appeal to be made to the Presbyterian churches throughout the state. This appeal was made in February. Work on the new building was begun February 20.

Although there were many obstacles to be overcome, Rev. Crouch was determined to secure all possible help on the project. The writer does not hesitate at all in saying the Spirit of the Living God accounts to a large degree for the accomplishment of the seemingly impossible", wrote Rev. Crouch on one occasion. In his address he expressed his deep appreciation for the wonderful aid rendered by various individuals, groups, and institutions. Although the cooperation of many agencies was essential for the restoration of the church, it now stands as a monument to the untiring efforts of Rev. Crouch.
